Spinal Beam >

It is the backbone of the system. It fixes the structure and leads and distributes power and data cabling. Its amplitude can house inside KVM, thin client computers or any other kind of electronic equipment.

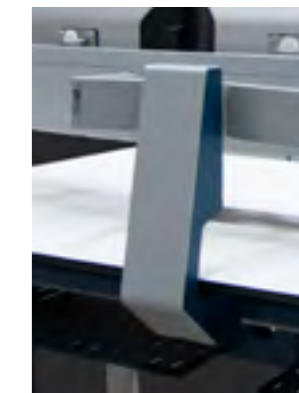

Nexus Gate >

The ADVANTIS New Generation system favors maximum connectivity with an optimal wiring organization. Its modular design adapts to all requirements and configurations of 24x7x365 operating environments.

Visual Ergonomics >

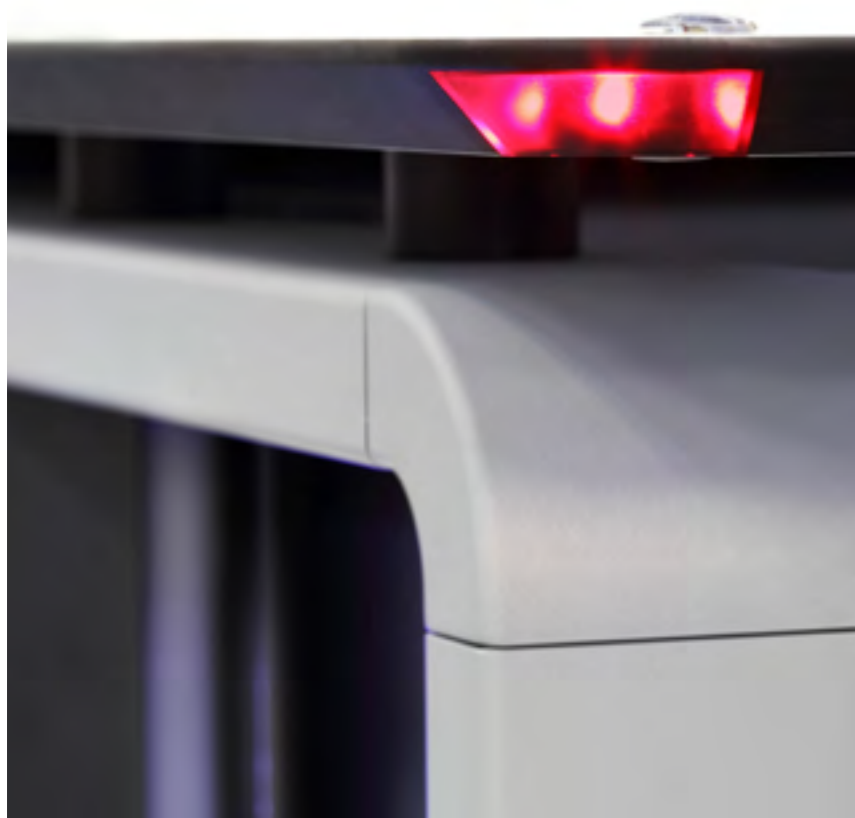

The new and exclusive arms systems put cables away from the operator, hide them from view, leaving the operational area free. They fit all viewing needs and enhance the work with 4 dimensions ergonomics.

Floating Operational Area >

In a place of high demand, the ADVANTIS New Generation console isolates the operator in a safe and healthy environment, free from vibration, thanks to the floating work plane.

Safety >

A unique integrated illumination system with LED beacons designed to meet safety and functionality requirements. In any situation, everything remains under control.

i-Box >

All the details are important. I-Box is a space designed for the comfort of people. This is a single container with the perfect size for documents and personal belongings.

Personal Dock >

A space for personal effects and operator connectivity.

Comfortable, flexible. Everything at hand, without leaving the control task.

Technical Buck >

For the most demanding environments in terms of technical equipment, ADVANTIS New Generation has a wide range of bucks that are integrated as never before in the very structure of the console to ensure direct communication with the rest of the console sectors and facilitate their integration.
